

MOTOCLUBes · About us

What MOTOCLUBes is

MOTOCLUBes is a motorcycle route app, made only for riders: to plan the route, ride out as a group, navigate it and discover the places where a rider is welcome. Inside it is Rider Friendly, the map of the restaurants, hotels, rural guesthouses, campsites and workshops that look after riders, and that is where we would like you to be.

Why we are writing to you

We are writing to you because we know you are a Rider Friendly place. Whether you are a restaurant, a hotel, a guesthouse, a campsite or a workshop: either we have checked it ourselves, on the road, or riders who have stopped at your place have recommended you and told us it is an exceptional place for us.

We are not trying to fill a map with names. We are looking for the places that already look after riders, so that others can find them.

Who founded it and why

MOTOCLUBes is an app by MOTOCLUBES TECH, a Barcelona company founded in 2026 by Mario, a rider and businessman with a long track record running technology companies.

It was born because riders were missing an app made just for us. The ones out there work the same for a lorry, a tractor or a family car: they take you from A to B, but they don't think about enjoying the ride. We go out riding for the thrill of discovering the land.

We wanted to find the roads and the corners you can only reach on two wheels. And we wanted to know, before setting off, where to stop: where to eat well, where to sleep well and where they think about riders.

We test the app by riding. Every new feature goes out on the road with groups of riders before it reaches everyone else; the latest test was a two-day, 813 km trip through the Maestrazgo.

What we are after

We want to connect the land with the places that look after riders. A good motorcycle route is not just the road: it is where you stop for a mid-morning bite, where you have lunch, where you sleep and where lunch turns into a long chat.

Today those places are found by chance, or because someone tells you about them. What we want is for riders to find you before they leave home, while they plan the route, and for the app to take them right to your door.

And the other way round: every Rider Friendly place is a reason to ride through its area. If a region has somewhere to eat, somewhere to sleep and somewhere to leave the bike under cover, that region makes it into the routes.

Spain, a riders' destination

Spain is one of the best places in Europe to ride: mountain passes, winding roads that are almost empty, good weather for much of the year, and villages where you eat and sleep well. Every year riders come from France, Germany, the Netherlands, the United Kingdom and other countries.

Our priority now is to get riders moving along routes within Spain: both local riders and those who come from abroad. For riders coming from the rest of Europe we are preparing the app and the website in other languages, so they can plan their trip with our routes and stop at your places.

Growth abroad will come later, with routes in other countries. But the first goal is for Spain to be the go-to riders' destination, and for anyone who comes to find somewhere to stop.

The routes we are going to publish

We are going to publish one-day and multi-day routes through the areas where people ride most, each with its full track and its stops to eat and sleep. We ride them ourselves before publishing them, and the stops are, whenever possible, Rider Friendly places.

Any rider can open a published route, see where it stops, and ride it exactly as it is with the app, which guides them from stop to stop. They can also see it on the website without the app, and share it with their group.

The first ones:

- The Maestrazgo, ridden in September: two days and 813 km between Barcelona and Cantavieja, in Teruel.
- The Trans-Pyrenean, from Barcelona to Hondarribia across the Pyrenees and back, in four days, which we ride from 9 October.

More will follow: mountain passes, day routes near the big cities and week-long trips designed for riders coming from abroad.

When a Rider Friendly place is on a published route, everyone who rides it goes past its door.

The app, explained so you can tell others about it

Many of your customers are riders, and some of you are too. Here it is in detail, so that if someone asks you, you know what it does.

What it aims for: that riders ride more and better, discover new places and go out as a group without the hassle of messages, separate maps and phone calls.

What it lets you do:

To	What it does	On the road
Plan	One-day or multi-day routes, with where to eat, sleep and refuel. You choose the type of road (fast, twisty or dirt), with or without tolls, and the mountain passes that can really be ridden	A weekend trip is ready on Thursday, with every night already decided

To	What it does	On the road
Ride as a group	The ride is called, everyone says whether they are coming, and the notice includes the weather forecast for the departure and arrival times	Everyone sees each other on the map, each with their own coloured helmet, and nobody gets lost at a junction
Talk	The group talks to each other through the app while riding, like an intercom	«We'll stop at the next petrol station» reaches everyone at once
Navigate	Short voice directions, speed camera and speed limit drop warnings, petrol stations with their prices, and the music doesn't cut out. On iPhone, also on the bike's or the car's screen with CarPlay	The rider doesn't need to look at the phone
Discover	Routes published by other riders and the Rider Friendly map	From your listing, «Vamos» (Let's go) takes them to your door
Repeat	A published route is opened and ridden as it is, stop by stop	A friend's route becomes theirs
Remember	Every ride is saved with its kilometres, its track, its stops and everyone's photos	When they get home, the summary is already done
Share	A route is shared by link and can be seen on the website without the app; a vertical video of the ride for social media comes out of it	What gets shared includes the stops: your place included

If a rider asks you, it takes a minute:

1. «It's a route app just for riders: you plan, ride as a group and navigate, all in one.»
2. «It has a map of places that look after riders, and we are on it.»
3. «It's at motoclub.es; very soon on the App Store and Google Play.»

How the service works for your business

We sign you up with a personal link, you create your listing in a web panel and, as soon as we review it, you appear on the app's map.

1. The listing: photos, description, opening hours by day, menu and set menus, and what you offer riders (covered garage, space for helmets, drying for wet gear, group menu...). A hotel or guesthouse adds its rooms, check-in and check-out times, the season and the dining prices.
2. The review: we review every listing before publishing it, and also every change you make afterwards. In the meantime, the app keeps showing the previous version. That way the map only shows genuine places, and you know nobody will find anything odd there.
3. The way to you: from your listing, the rider taps «Vamos» (Let's go) and the app takes them to your door.
4. Offers, if you want them: a riders' menu, a package with dinner and garage, a discount or a small gift. The rider gets their QR code in the app and shows it on arrival; you scan it with your phone and it is redeemed. You can withdraw offers whenever you want, but QR codes already issued are always honoured: some people plan their route months in advance.
5. Reviews: they are left by riders who have really stopped at your place.

6. Your panel: there you see how many riders have your QR code not yet redeemed and the redemptions, and you get a summary email in the morning when there is news.
7. What's coming: we are preparing bookings from the app. Riders will request a room or a table for their dates, and you choose how: confirm each request with a tap, or mark on your calendar the days you have space and let the booking confirm itself. Always under your control: you decide what can be booked and when. And so you don't miss any, you will have a simple app for your business that alerts you on your phone to every booking.

If you feel something is missing, let us know: Rider Friendly is being built with the first businesses.

Founding partners

The first ten businesses are founding partners. For them it is free forever, and they carry on the map and on their listing a crown and the founding partner badge, a mark no business joining later will ever have.

We want to be frank: like any company starting out, MOTOCLUBes may succeed or it may not. But if it succeeds, and we work every day for that, having been there from the start has advantages: more visibility, direct contact with us and the chance to help us build Rider Friendly to fit businesses like yours.

When we launch and where we are heading

Today the app is being tested by a group of riders on iPhone and Android, and it will be on the App Store and Google Play very soon, open to everyone. Then come:

- Rider Friendly with its ten founding partners, and then more restaurants, hotels, guesthouses, campsites and workshops in the areas where people ride most.
- Bookings from the app: the rider requests and you confirm, by hand or automatically according to your calendar. With an app for your business that alerts you on your phone.
- Motorcycle clubs: clubs organising their rides in the app, with all their members.
- More safety on the road: we are developing crash detection, to alert the group and the family if a rider goes down.
- Europe: the app and the website in other languages, for riders coming to ride in Spain.

Our goal: that a year from now, when a group of riders plans a route through Spain, the first thing they open is MOTOCLUBes, and that at every stop there is a Rider Friendly place waiting for them. You from the kitchen, the reception or the campsite; us from the bike. Shall we set off together?
